No better evidence is needed of the greatness and progressiveness of Harrison county than the fact that it has banks in several of its cities and towns. All which are in operation are doing a splendid business and the several in contemplation have excellent prospects. This situation is an evidence that plenty of money and business abounds in this county. It is a further evidence that the business men of the county appreciate despatch and convenience in business and are endeavoring to do away with foggy methods. A bank is a good thing for any community and the Telegram is glad to witness the building up of such institutions in the various neighborhoods in the county. The people should not forget that the policies of the Republican party have brought the opportunity to put into execution this spirit of progressiveness.

A million dollar corporation for Clarksburg certainly speaks well. The day is at hand when big things are all the go and that this gigantic concern will be a decided success no one has a shade of a doubt. They are business men in it who never fail in their undertakings. Moreover, the object of the Clarksburg Building and Loan Association is of such a patriotic nature that the concern cannot do otherwise than flourish and grow powerfully in its beneficial effects.

This latest information is that the Jackson Iron and Tin Plate mills will resume operations next Monday. The mills will be started in part and perhaps in full on that day, and the many good men who have had no work to do for several weeks will again be earning a livelihood and assisting in building up a greater Clarksburg. Everyone will rejoice when the mills resume operations.

Very wisely has it been suggested that the United States senatorial contest in this state be dropped for the present. Two years hence will be soon enough to turn our attention to that matter. In the meantime let our efforts be for the building up of the state and may our attention be directed to measures which will be for the best welfare of the people of this state.

Are the Two Ice Companies at Last.

Officers of the New Company Begin Active Operations.

The consolidation of the two ice companies into the Clarksburg Ice and Storage Company was completed late Wednesday afternoon and the assets were turned over that night. The new company is now in active operation.

The board of directors of the new company are Dr. W. E. Stathers, S. A.
Lewis, Charles M. Hart, W. W.
Jamieson, Charles L. Hickman, W. F. Nuzum, and Fred M. Stanton.

The officers are W. W. Jamieson, president; S. A. Lewis, vice-president; C. L. Hickman, secretary and treasurer; and W. F. Nuzum, general manager.

NEW QUARTERS

Will be Occupied by the Mt. State Gas Company.

The Mt. State Gas Company which has had offices on West Pike street, near the corner of Pike and Third the past several years, will move into the Rookery building on South Third street shortly. The move is made necessary on account of the fact that the owners of the site where the office now is will tear away the old buildings and have a handsome and costly business block erected there.

TRANSFER COMPANY

With William Goe, Manager, Locates in this City.

The National Transfer Company is putting in wires and an office in the Rookery building on Third street which belongs to C. W. Leggett. This company is managed by William R.
Goe, the well known South Penn superintendent and will do an extensive business. They have handsome office rooms.

OPERA TICKETS

Will be on Sale at C. D. Sturm's Drug Store in the Future.

The Traders Grand opera house tickets will hereafter be found on sale at C. D. Sturm & Co.'s drug store.
The plat was moved this morning from F. A. Robinson & Son's jewelry store to that place, and in the future the advance sale of tickets will be there.

Oyster Supper

Harrison Lodge No. 223 I. O. O. F. of Wolf Summit, will give an oyster supper and dance at Whittington's Hall, Friday night. Oysters and a regular supper will be served from 10 to 12 p. m. The proceeds will be for benefit of the lodge. Good music will be furnished by Clarksburg orchestra.
Everybody is cordially invited.

Pass Resolutions of Respect in Memory of Floyd Frum.

Glowing Tribute Paid Deceased by His Fellow Workmen.

At a meeting of the B. & O. Engineering Corps, held December 8th, 1902, the following preambles and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from our midst our late member, Floyd N. Frum, and Whereas, It is but just that a fitting recognition of his many virtues should be had; therefore, be it Resolved, By the members of this Corps that, while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our member who has been taken from us.

Resolved, That in the death of our member, Floyd N. Frum, this corps laments the loss of a member, who was an active man and whose utmost endeavors were exerted for the profession in which he was engaged; a young man whose upright and noble life was a standard of emulation to his fellows.

Resolved, That the heart-felt sympathies of this corps be extended to his family in their severe affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be kept by the corps and a copy be sent to the father and mother of our deceased member. Also, that copies be sent to the Chief Engineer

A DEVIL'S LANE

Splendid Attendance at the Grand Last Night.

The musical comedy, "A Devil's Lane," was presented at the Traders Grand opera house Wednesday evening. In spite of the inclemency of the weather there was a good-sized crowd present.

The play was an excellent one from beginning to end. It was much enjoyed by those present. The El More sisters captivated the audience. They are full of life and activity and their work was fine.

Frank F. Farrell as Job Jenkins, the hired man on the Barlow farm, played a splendid character. His specialty "stunts" were good and he was encored several times.

The company shows tonight at Weston and tomorrow night at Fairmont.

WARRANT

Reissued Against William Bell for Stealing Funds.

Wednesday afternoon upon complaint of Rev. J. A. Watson, pastor of the colored Mt. Zion Baptist church, Squire James N. David issued a warrant against William Bell, colored, the fellow who was acquitted the day before of the charge of embezzling money belonging to the church. The second warrant charged him with misdemeanor instead of felony as was in the first. It alleges that he stole $17.50.

"A Turkish Texan"

"A Turkish Texan," the latest and most successful comedy from the pen of that famous comedian, Willie Collier, will be presented at the Grand on Thursday, Dec. 12, and no doubt our theatregoers will turn out en masse to greet this latest effort of the favorite comedians. The company presenting the play is one worthy of note, containing as it does the names of some of the best people on the stage, all of whom are well known for their clever and finished work in the support of various stars in the past. The company is headed by George Parsons, the brilliant young comedian, and he is supported by Isabelle Urquhart, Myr-le May, May Sherwood, Georgie Drew Mendum, Belle Robinson, Morgan Coman, Charles Arthur, H. G. Hockey and Harry Jones.

"Gypsy Jack," Jan. 23

Despite the apparent sway of farce comedy and "show girl" performances, the old-fashioned melodrama still claims its devoted adherents. That this is so, without a doubt, is practically proven by the unstinted success which has greeted Willis Granger during his present tour with "Gypsy Jack." Not only is Manager Edward C. White highly pleased with the reception which has greeted his new star, but the latter has, by his intrinsic worth as a melo-dramatic actor, proven his fitness for the role of the gypsy boy, which is the leading character in the production.

Over five thousand dollars have been invested by managers Johnson and Green, for scenery and properties, for the production of "A Devil's Lane," at the Grand, Wednesday, December 10. Manager Farland only furnishes the drop curtain for the stage. All else is carried by the company. No theatrical company on the road is better equipped for a first class performance than this excellent company.

Miss Katherine Willard is adding new laurels to her reputation by her rendition of "Aria" in the emotional drama, "The Power Behind the Throne." Miss Willard has proved her ability and exceptional talents in the production, so much so that her tour is one continuous ovation. Nothing is lacking in scenic effect, stage mechanism or costuming to keep "The Power Behind the Throne" up to the topmost standard, while the star's support "play up to her" with admirable skill.

Michigan, who, after being detained in the city on business. He was somewhat astonished to find the front door standing ajar, and, passing through the hall to the dining room, what was his surprise to find everything turned topsy turvy and the butler bound and gagged.
Releasing him, MacAllister darted upstairs, and, discovering no evidence of the family having been disturbed, he went below again and listened to the butler's account of the robbery. The man had been forced at the point of a revolver to open the silver safe, and its contents had been rifled.

"Who's dog is that moaning in the yard?" asked MacAllister, and without waiting for an answer he went out into the grounds. There at a side gate was a dog scratching to get out. It at once occurred to MacAllister that the beast had come with the burglars and in their haste to depart they had shut off his exit. Perhaps if he were permitted to go he would follow them. At any rate, the experiment was worth trying.
MacAllister went to the stable and got out a saddle horse, armed himself with a revolver and then released the dog, which ran off toward the city.

MacAllister mounted and followed.
The dog soon settled into a steady trot down a street that eventually led him to the north end of Lincoln park. Getting through the park appeared more puzzling to him than following a straight street, but at the south end he struck an avenue and after that seemed to know his route perfectly. Coming to the street running next parallel with the river, he turned to the right and after traversing a few blocks struck a region given over almost exclusively to manufacturing.

Meanwhile MacAllister had picked up a mounted policeman in the extreme northern part of the city, to whom as they rode along he explained what he was about. The cop was rather skeptical as to the outcome of the adventure till the dog entered a tenement house which had for some time been held in suspicion. Throwing themselves off their horses as quickly as it could be done, they followed the dog into the building, but they were too late. Their guide had disappeared. Mounting a rickety staircase with as noiseless a tread as possible, they searched every landing. On coming to the top story and seeing nothing of their guide they concluded that they had had their pains for nothing and were about to give up the chase when they heard the sounds of a dog barking as if in great delight. It occurred to MacAllister that the dog had found its friends and was rejoicing at the meeting.

"In that room," he said, "I shall find my silver."

"Stop here," said the cop, "while I go for help."

"Help? What help do you want?
Aren't we two armed men? While you are away they might take it into their heads to move on."

MacAllister knocked. There was a shuffling about inside, and after much delay the door was opened. Facing three revolvers stood a mite of a girl.
Within was a woman with a baby in her arms. The dog the men had followed stood in the middle of the floor looking at them.

The story told by the woman was that she had been up with her baby, who was ill, and on hearing the knock had delayed in order to huddle on some clothes. As to the dog, he was a part of the family. When told of his having doubtless been in the company of burglars, all the information she could give on this subject was that he had been off occasionally with a man who had recently rented a room on the opposite side of the hall.

Turning their attention to the door opposite, they knocked, but, receiving no response, broke it open. Striking a match, they made a search, but found nothing and concluded that the plunder had not yet been brought in. The lock to the door had been only injured and that not so badly that they could close it as before. Having done so, they took position in the room of the woman opposite and waited.

Just before dawn there was a step in the hall below, and some one came stealthily up the staircase, paused at the door opposite, took out a key, unlocked the door and entered. MacAllister was about to move against him when the cop stopped him.

"Perhaps there are more below waiting to see if the coast is clear."

They waited awhile, but no one else came. MacAllister made another move, but was again held back.

"He may not have the swag with him, and we'd have a poor case against him. Let the dog go."

Opening the door, they put the dog in the hall, and he was soon scratching at the door opposite. On being admitted the words could be plainly heard:

"Hello, Zip! I thought you'd been left behind."

"That's enough," said the cop, and they proceeded to make the arrest, which was effected without resistance.

The silver was not in the room, and without the evidence of the dog there would have been little chance of a conviction. They, however, made the case so strong that the man confessed under promise of a light sentence and restored the plunder.

MacAllister paid the owners of the dog handsomely for him and put them on the list of those whom he befriended. Zip is now the guardian of the house he was once implicated in robbing and at the slightest sound in the yard barks fiercely.
